MSURA HISTORY

Michigan State University Retirees Association was created by a few male retirees in 1949. They wanted to participate in some constructive activities to stay in touch with each other. In 1975 women retirees and surviving spouses were formally invited to join the group.

Throughout the years the constant aim of improving retirement options and providing a voice for MSU retirees have been the primary purposes of the organization. During the 1980s the group began its focus of service to the University and to a lesser extent to the greater Lansing area. It is during this time that the Michigan State University Retirees Association (MSURA) name was adopted.

The first newsletter made its debut in January 1980, and now various social media have been added as vehicles of communication. MSURA needs your support to continue these activities and to maintain its office and member meetings.
